Spelling Bee celebrates 90 years, new changes this year

CRUN HILL, Maryland
Shawn Rinaldi, who advanced to the final day in the 2016 election and reversed a historic perception of the state's political lean, has been named the state's Democrat of the Year.

"In terms of messaging, I say not a single time, and in fact I have had to educate him on facts. That is troubling," said Matt Rinaldi, who wrote on Facebook that he "is always proven that."
Amazon tops online market again

Company continues to dominate e-commerce

Amazon uses data better than anyone to achieve goals for everything they sell. It has a chance to be the most dominant company in the world.

MARK CUBAN

Kansas City Star
kylebr1@gmail.com

The image from the WSJ of an undated still image broadcast in a newscast on Thursday June 1, 2017 about North Korea leader Kim Jong Un has been widely misused, increasing the number of disfigured interop- eration victims. Laura Grop, senior scientist at the Union of Concerned Scientists, which has criticized the missile defense program, called the inter- preted as an “advanced provocation” meaning it is not fully matured technologically even if it has a military motive. The Pentagon admitted in May that its $99-a-

KYLE BROWN

The Denver Post

Complaints about the unverified use of the file are generally false.}

Sanctuary cities spark tension

Continued from Page 1

public reaction. Rep. Lou Lough, who said the “sanctuary ban” was “a transfer of power” by the administration to the states, continued to push this status quo over the skirmishes and the loss of the Senate majority Tuesday. Arvizu said in a July letter to the Senate Appropriations Committee, when the state was still considered a “sanctuary state,” that Arizona was not being insulated from federal immigration actions.

Continue to monitor this story as it develops.

North Korea using solid fuel in rockets

U.S. militarytors believe in accelerating misequivle development has complicated Pentagon calculations, most recently in incorporating solid-fuel technology into its rockets. The step could mean even less launch warning time for the United States.

Liquid fuel is less stable and requires more maintenance than solid, according to an Air Force retiree.

Undersea in unreported efforts, North Korea fired a short-range ballistic mis-

The target was a custom-made missile designed to周年减产 than most missiles used in previous test incidents, according to Christopher Johnson, the Min-

The intent was to connect.

The latest revelations to emerge about last week's launches concern the Trump administration's ultimate goal, which has repeatedly said it aims to denuclearize the Korean Peninsula. The new U.S. government has indicated it believes achieving this goal will require a mix of economic sanctions and diplomatic engagement, including talks with North Korea itself. The Trump administration has also signaled a willingness to consider direct talks with North Korean leaders, though the future of such negotiations remains uncertain.
Baghdad bombings kill dozens

US soldiers take back seat in snap election

BY IAN LUNES

LONDON — The British government voted to leave the European Union, triggering a snap election in June that will test the political and economic stability of the country's pro-Brexit, populist government.

The attacks come just days into the campaign for the snap election, which is expected to take place on June 8.

“Nothing more must happen. As a nation we have lost too many lives, too many families have been destroyed, too many communities have been shattered,” said Theresa May, the prime minister, in a statement.

She went on to say that the government was “taking urgent action to strengthen our defenses against terrorism and to ensure that our citizens are safe.”

May said that the government was “working closely with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses, and we are working to strengthen our defenses against terrorism.”

She added: “We will continue to work with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses and to ensure that our citizens are safe.

“Nothing more must happen. As a nation we have lost too many lives, too many families have been destroyed, too many communities have been shattered,” said Theresa May, the prime minister, in a statement.

She went on to say that the government was “taking urgent action to strengthen our defenses against terrorism and to ensure that our citizens are safe.”

May said that the government was “working closely with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses, and we are working to strengthen our defenses against terrorism.”

She added: “We will continue to work with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses and to ensure that our citizens are safe.

“Nothing more must happen. As a nation we have lost too many lives, too many families have been destroyed, too many communities have been shattered,” said Theresa May, the prime minister, in a statement.

She went on to say that the government was “taking urgent action to strengthen our defenses against terrorism and to ensure that our citizens are safe.”

May said that the government was “working closely with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses, and we are working to strengthen our defenses against terrorism.”

She added: “We will continue to work with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses and to ensure that our citizens are safe.

“Nothing more must happen. As a nation we have lost too many lives, too many families have been destroyed, too many communities have been shattered,” said Theresa May, the prime minister, in a statement.

She went on to say that the government was “taking urgent action to strengthen our defenses against terrorism and to ensure that our citizens are safe.”

May said that the government was “working closely with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses, and we are working to strengthen our defenses against terrorism.”

She added: “We will continue to work with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses and to ensure that our citizens are safe.

“Nothing more must happen. As a nation we have lost too many lives, too many families have been destroyed, too many communities have been shattered,” said Theresa May, the prime minister, in a statement.

She went on to say that the government was “taking urgent action to strengthen our defenses against terrorism and to ensure that our citizens are safe.”

May said that the government was “working closely with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses, and we are working to strengthen our defenses against terrorism.”

She added: “We will continue to work with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses and to ensure that our citizens are safe.

“Nothing more must happen. As a nation we have lost too many lives, too many families have been destroyed, too many communities have been shattered,” said Theresa May, the prime minister, in a statement.

She went on to say that the government was “taking urgent action to strengthen our defenses against terrorism and to ensure that our citizens are safe.”

May said that the government was “working closely with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses, and we are working to strengthen our defenses against terrorism.”

She added: “We will continue to work with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses and to ensure that our citizens are safe.

“Nothing more must happen. As a nation we have lost too many lives, too many families have been destroyed, too many communities have been shattered,” said Theresa May, the prime minister, in a statement.

She went on to say that the government was “taking urgent action to strengthen our defenses against terrorism and to ensure that our citizens are safe.”

May said that the government was “working closely with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses, and we are working to strengthen our defenses against terrorism.”

She added: “We will continue to work with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses and to ensure that our citizens are safe.

“Nothing more must happen. As a nation we have lost too many lives, too many families have been destroyed, too many communities have been shattered,” said Theresa May, the prime minister, in a statement.

She went on to say that the government was “taking urgent action to strengthen our defenses against terrorism and to ensure that our citizens are safe.”

May said that the government was “working closely with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses, and we are working to strengthen our defenses against terrorism.”

She added: “We will continue to work with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses and to ensure that our citizens are safe.

“Nothing more must happen. As a nation we have lost too many lives, too many families have been destroyed, too many communities have been shattered,” said Theresa May, the prime minister, in a statement.

She went on to say that the government was “taking urgent action to strengthen our defenses against terrorism and to ensure that our citizens are safe.”

May said that the government was “working closely with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses, and we are working to strengthen our defenses against terrorism.”

She added: “We will continue to work with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses and to ensure that our citizens are safe.

“Nothing more must happen. As a nation we have lost too many lives, too many families have been destroyed, too many communities have been shattered,” said Theresa May, the prime minister, in a statement.

She went on to say that the government was “taking urgent action to strengthen our defenses against terrorism and to ensure that our citizens are safe.”

May said that the government was “working closely with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses, and we are working to strengthen our defenses against terrorism.”

She added: “We will continue to work with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses and to ensure that our citizens are safe.

“Nothing more must happen. As a nation we have lost too many lives, too many families have been destroyed, too many communities have been shattered,” said Theresa May, the prime minister, in a statement.

She went on to say that the government was “taking urgent action to strengthen our defenses against terrorism and to ensure that our citizens are safe.”

May said that the government was “working closely with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses, and we are working to strengthen our defenses against terrorism.”

She added: “We will continue to work with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses and to ensure that our citizens are safe.

“Nothing more must happen. As a nation we have lost too many lives, too many families have been destroyed, too many communities have been shattered,” said Theresa May, the prime minister, in a statement.

She went on to say that the government was “taking urgent action to strengthen our defenses against terrorism and to ensure that our citizens are safe.”

May said that the government was “working closely with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses, and we are working to strengthen our defenses against terrorism.”

She added: “We will continue to work with our partners in the EU and NATO to strengthen our defenses and to ensure that our citizens are safe.
New Miami mall to become largest in US

Dream Miami a mall.

A federal appeals court says Ashton, a transgender senior student who identifies as a male, to deal with the situation, "We still need

Woods blamed DUI on prescription drugs

Police shootings spark debate

Officer in Tamir Rice killing charged

US stock market hot streak comes to an end

3 Island owner mine will close if谈判 comes to an end

New Miami mall to become largest in US

SCOTUS sides with officers

Woods blames DUI on prescription drugs

Police shootings spark debate

Officer in Tamir Rice killing charged

US stock market hot streak comes to an end

3 Island owner mine will close if谈判 comes to an end

New Miami mall to become largest in US

SCOTUS sides with officers
Police officer forced off road, sided by passers-by

MICHAEL CIAGLO / ASSOCIATED PRESS

On Wednesday, May 31, 2017, in Texas and Southwest

Texas foster care puts children at risk

Audit says welfare cases failed to meet state, federal regulations

For nearly a year, Jon Carter, 19, has waited for his parents to show up in court, standing in front of a blank screen. He’s one of hundreds of children who are stuck in a seemingly endless cycle of court appearances without their parents. Carter does not know what’s happening or what the outcome will be, but he feels the pressure.

While Texas foster care programs are designed to provide a safe and stable environment for children, they often fail to meet the necessary standards. The state’s Department of Family and Protective Services (DFPS) has been criticized for its handling of cases, with many children being kept in foster care for extended periods of time without appropriate services.

The audit by the Texas Health and Human Services Commission (HHSC) found that the state’s foster care system is underfunded and lacks the necessary resources to properly care for children. The report concluded that the system is “inadequate” and “lacks the capacity to provide the necessary services to children in foster care.”

According to the report, the state’s foster care system has failed to ensure the safety and well-being of children, with a lack of oversight and accountability. HHSC Commissioner Hank Whitman called the report a “wake-up call” and said that the state needs to do more to improve the system.

The report also found that the state has failed to properly monitor the foster care system, with a lack of data and information. The HHSC has been criticized for its lack of transparency and accountability, with many questions remaining about the state’s foster care system.

In a statement, Whitman said that the report will be used to guide the state’s efforts to improve the foster care system. He said that the HHSC is committed to ensuring that children in foster care are safe and have the necessary resources to thrive.

The report comes as the state faces increasing pressure to improve its foster care system. A recent audit by the federal government found that the state needs to do more to ensure the safety and well-being of children in foster care. The report also recommended that the state increase funding for foster care services.

The state has promised to address the issues raised in the report, but it remains to be seen whether the state will be able to make the necessary changes. The HHSC has been under increased pressure to improve the foster care system, with many questions remaining about the state’s ability to provide the necessary services to children.

The report is the latest in a series of audits that have highlighted problems with the state’s foster care system. A recent audit by the state’s Auditor General found that the state has failed to properly monitor the foster care system, with a lack of data and information. The report also recommended that the state increase funding for foster care services.

The state has promised to address the issues raised in the report, but it remains to be seen whether the state will be able to make the necessary changes. The HHSC has been under increased pressure to improve the foster care system, with many questions remaining about the state’s ability to provide the necessary services to children.
The film, directed by Patty Jenkins, opens in theaters June 2.

Wonder Woman

Gal Gadot brings superheroine to life in ‘Wonder Woman.’ The film, directed by Patty Jenkins, opens in theaters June 2.

“I am a filmaker who wants to make successful films, of course. I want my film to be celebrated,” she said. “But there’s a whole other person in me who’s sitting and watching what’s happening right now who so hopes, not for me, but for [my movie] to succeed. Because I want to see the signal that that will send to the world.”

DIRECTOR OF “WONDER WOMAN”

PATTY JENKINS, 45, is making her directorial debut with “Wonder Woman,” which stars Gal Gadot in the title role. Jenkins is already known for her work on the 2011 film “The Fighter,” which earned her an Oscar nomination for best director. The film is based on the true story of boxer Mickey Ward and trainer Dickie Eklund, and stars Christian Bale, Mark Wahlberg, and Amy Adams. Jenkins said she wanted to bring Wonder Woman to the big screen because “she’s so strong and so inspiring.”

CRITICS’ RATINGS

8.4/10

WONDER WOMAN THROUGHOUT THE YEARS

1942

1973

“Auntie Comics” debuts in the “Super Friends” TV show.

1975

Lynda Carter and Hayden Rorke portray Wonder Woman and the Amazons in “Wonder Woman.”

2001

Lynda Carter returns as Wonder Woman in “Wonder Woman: The TV Show”.

2017

Gł Gal Gadot plays princess Diana, better known as Wonder Woman, in the 2017 release of the DC movie.

BIOGRAPHY

SANDY COHEN

AP ENTERTAINMENT WRITER

PHOTOS BY ABC PHOTO ARCHIVES

Southwest Journalist

WEDNESDAY, MAY 31, 2017

AP ENTERTAINMENT WRITER

SANDY COHEN